NEW: PLANNING WITHOUT GOVERNMENT

At the end of the seventies, Ton Kreukels argued against the prevailing notion that spatial planning was the exclusive responsibility of the government. In this liber amicorum, a number of prominent academic and professional people investigate this point of view.

ANOTHER PRIZE: METROPOLITAN WORLD ATLAS

We warmly congratulate designer Joost Grootens for winning another award with his Metropolitan World Atlas: the Dutch Design Prize 2006, in the category Graphic Design. Even though we say it ourselves, the list of prizes won by this atlas is now pretty impressive:

- Gold medal in the 'Best Book Design from all over the World' competition
- Best Dutch Book Design 2005
- red dot award: best of the best 2006
- Dutch Design Award

In Eindhoven, this atlas and all the nominations for the Dutch Design Prize 2006 are on show in an exhibition during the Dutch Design Week.

Exhibition: Strijp S, Beukenlaan 10151 in Eindhoven, until October 29th 2006. For this and other activities, please see <http://www.dutchdesignweek.nl>.
